“Just a Small Town Murder Case Study” Will be Presented by Eckberg Lammers Senior Director of Training Imran Ali

Investigating any homicide can prove challenging. But when it happens on the outskirts of a small town, much of advancements in technology are moot. Can you prosecute a murder with little surveillance, no witnesses, no DNA, no fingerprints, no murder weapon and no confessions?

This case study will provide investigators lessons learned on how to prosecute a truly circumstantial homicide.

Imran is a shareholder with Eckberg Lammers and the Senior Director of Training, Consulting and Investigation Services. As a career-long trial lawyer, he also focuses his practice on Complex Litigation, Personal Injury, and Municipal Prosecution.

Imran has been a trial attorney in the public sector for over 17 years. His extensive experience is recognized both in the courtroom and the community. Iowa DCI SAC Adam DeCamp and Sheriff Adam Infante Present on the Tragic Perry High School Shooting of January 4, 2024

On January 4, 2024, a lone shooter inside Perry High School killed a student and a school administrator, injured six others, and terrorized an entire community before taking his own life. In the moments immediately following the shooting, Adam DeCamp was the on-scene supervisor, leading the investigation into not only the incident itself, but also the pathway to violence the shooter traveled. Since the Perry High School shooting, DeCamp has remained committed to sharing the insights and lessons learned throughout the investigation. His goal is to support law enforcement agencies, officers, and investigators in strengthening their preparedness and response — before, during, and after critical incidents.

Adam DeCamp currently serves as a Special Agent in Charge for the Iowa Division of Criminal Investigation, bringing over 30 years of law enforcement experience to the role. While he has spent several years in leadership at headquarters, including a stint as Bureau Chief of the Professional Standards Bureau, Adam DeCamp has dedicated most of his career to the Major Crime Unit (MCU). Today, as he has for the past seven years, Adam oversees a team of MCU agents serving the south-central region of Iowa.

On the morning of January 4, 2024, Dallas County Sheriff Adam Infante was pulling into his office when an active shooter call was broadcast over the police radio. The efforts of Sheriff Infante and the entirety of law enforcement in Dallas County – before, during, and after, helped mitigate the negative impacts of the shooter’s actions and aid in the recovery of the students, staff, and community impacted by the events inside Perry High School.
